GPs can participate in all of the above. You have the choice to develop expertise and systems on how to deliver any of the above. You can work full-time, part-time or as volunteers. Scenarios three to five have a hospital base to which they are linked. Therefore, there are specialists you can consult without having to send the patient to the hospital unless both you and the specialist agree with the patient that is the cost-effective thing to do. It has to be about saving the patient's money. Our job and contribution to the health of the nation is the practice of good medical science (not fringe medicine). The patient (with government help) needs to consider the economics of health and health care to decide how they wish to spend their money.

Enjoy the new leap year of prosperity (studded with 8s), the recent GP survey conducted by the Singapore Medical Association notwithstanding because that is the state of affairs yesterday. You have every right to change the status quo for a better tomorrow.

Simple modifications can make the home a safer place for the elderly. Grab bars, shower seats and toilet seat raisers in the bathroom are some examples you can see and try out at the HomeCare Solutions Centre in Jurong Medical Centre*
